Voice of America

Headquarters: 330 Independence Ave., S.W., Washington 20547. (202) 485-8238. FAX: (202) 485-8241. Richard W. Carlson, dir; Robert T. Coonrod, deputy dir; Sid Davis, dir office of prog; Robert J. LaFleur, dir office of engrg; Judy Jamison & Beth Knisley, co-dirs of pub affrs.

Policy: The Voice of America (VOA), the international broadcasting service of the U.S. Information Agency, is governed by its Charter (Public Law 94-350) which stipulates the VOA will: (1). serve as a consistently reliable and authoritative source of news and that its news will be accurate, objective and comprehensive; (2). represent America, not any single segment of American society, and will therefore present a balanced and comprehensive projection of significant American thought and institutions; (3). present the policies of the United States clearly and effectively, and will also present responsible discussion and opinion on these policies.

Facilities: VOA has 112 medium wave and shortwave transmitters which collectively have a total power in excess of 26 million watts. The power of individual transmitters in VOA's worldwide network ranges from 35 kw to 1000 kw. The VOA standard is to use three transmitters for each broadcast. Thes transmitters are located at 18 relay stations in the U.S. and abroad in Antigua, Belize, Botswana, Costa Rica, England, Greece, Liberia, Morocco, the Phillipines, Sri Lanka, Thailand and West Germany. Programs originate in the studio complex at VOA headquarters. A 150-channel master control panel is used to route them onto appropiate satellite circuits for delivery to the relay stations.

Programing: U.S. and world events are reported accurately and fully in VOA newscasts and news programs. Features, backgrounders, interviews, on-the-scene coverage of special events, and documentaries provide listeners around the world with an accurate, comprehensive, and balanced portrayal of American life and opinion. Clear information on U.S. policies is reflected in editorials.

Program placement: VOA programing is also made available to, and extensively used by, foriegn media in more than 100 countries. Radio stations in some countries simply relay VOA's direct broadcasts or tape program segments from them for rebroadcast at prime local listening times. Satellite or high frequency feeds, dial-up systems, and airmailed tapes are also used to provide VOA programing in 20 languages to stations in Africa, the American Republics, East and South Asia, the Middle East and Western Europe.

Program hours and languages: The 1,200 hours of programing produced at VOA each week include two special services: VOA Europe and Radio Marti. VOA Europe is an around-the-clock radio service in English which is delivered to Western Europe by satellite for broadcast on FM and cable radio stations in 10 countries; 90.5 hours weekly of the VOA Europe broadcast are originated by the VOA staff and the balance is syndicated music programs. The Radio Marti program is beamed to Cuba 122.5 hours each week by a 50 kw medium wave transmitter in Florida. All other programing (986.25 hours weekly) is transmitted on shortwave and/or medium wave int hte following 44 languages:

Armed Forces Radio and Television Service (AFRTS).

AFRTS operates over 800 radio and television outlets located in 56 foreign countries. AFRTS facilities are established with major concentrations of U.S. forces overseas as well as in remote areas of Alaska, U.S. trusts, territories and possessions, aboard 542 Navy ships and as closed-circuit facilities in 243 isolated locations. Most of the land-based stations are grouped into regional AFRTS networks to serve specific geographical areas, i.e. American Forces Network-Europe in Europe and Far East Network in the Pacific. AFRTS networks and independent stations overseas create their own individual radio and television program schedules from broadcast materials provided by the AFRTS Broadcast Center in Sun Valley, Calif. and from their own local productions. Some outlets are broadcast operations and some are carried on closed circuit systems of various types. Domestic and Intelsat satellite service is leased on a 24 hour-a-day basis, providing real-time stateside radio and TV to overseas locations.

Headquarters, AFRTS. AFRTS is the broadcast arm of the American Forces Information Service located at 601 N. Fairfax St., Alexandria, Va. 22314. (202) 696-5280. Melvin Russell, asst dir, AFRTS; Lieutenant Colonel Tom HAnsen, opns mgr; Lieutenant Colonel Michael Patterson, mgmt svcs.

Radio Markets Ranked by Arbitron Total Survey Area

This chart ranks the 262 radio markets by Total Survey Area 12 plus population (see also the preceding chart of rankings by Metro Survey Area). Figures are population aged 12 or older, based on the 1980 U.S. Census Bureau estimates updated and projected to January 1, 1991. Data reflects the Fall 1990 Arbitron market definitions.

* An asterisk following a market name indicates that the market is imbedded in a larger nearby market. See the Radio Market directory beginning on page B-470 for details.

Television Marketplace

The ADI Market Atlas

The Area of Dominant Influence is the geographic market design that defines each television market exclusive of the others, based on measuring viewing patterns. Each market's ADI consists of all the counties in which the home market stations receive a preponderance of viewing, and every county in the continental U.S. is allocated exclusively to one ADI—there is no overlap. The total of all ADI's represents the total television households in the U.S.

The ADI is a standard market definition. As a television buying tool it is a geographical and demographic means for maximum efficiency. As a station tool it is a geographic and demographic means for maximum efficiency. As a station tool it has applications for sales, programing and promotion planning.

Following, in alphabetical order, are Arbitron's 209 ADI markets for 1990-1991 with coverage maps for each, and county by county breakouts of TV households. Other data include the markets' stations, their cities of license, channel numbers and network affiliations.

Coverage maps show total survey areas in light shading, the ADI's themselves outlined in black, and Arbitron Metro rating areas in white. The survey areas consist of all counties in which the home market stations are viewed to any significant extent, including via cable. The Metro Areas usually conform to U.S. Census Standard Metropolitan statistical areas.

Non-ADI markets do not meet Arbitron's criteria for having an ADI of their own; they are listed with the ADI of which they are a part.

A complete listing of the non-ADI markets and a cross reference list of cities in multi-city ADI's appear on page C-131.

Non-ADI Markets

The following single-county markets did not achieve ADI status because the preponderance of viewing is not to the home-market station. Neither did they meet the criteria of the 10% Rule to become an ADI. The home counties in non-ADI markets are assigned to the ADIs that do receive the preponderance of viewing.

TV Markets by Nielsen Marketing Research Territory

Nielsen Marketing Research territory groups are another standard way of reporting sales data. The following table ranks TV markets within each Nielsen Territory. This provides a yardstick for determining the number of spot markets needed to achieve a given coverage of territory. For example, if the national media are not delivering sufficient advertising weight in New England, the planner will find that 3 TV markets (Boston, Hartford and Providence) contain almost 80% of New England territory households. Or the planner can use the table to get a better idea of what TV markets are needed to cover all of New England. Data is from a Nielsen Station Index tabulation based on a January 1991 estimate.

How Network Delivery Varies by Market

National advertisers use spot television to increase network advertising weight in specific markets to a achieve a predetermined level. These market goals are derived from the advertsing budget and the market's share of the brand's projected sales. Thus, a spot schedule is usually indicated where a market has an unusually high brand-sales potential, or where the network weight delivered for the brand is below the national average used in planning, or both.

The first factor, market brand potential, varies by product and is difficult to generalize. The second factor, local market network audiences, must be generalized because planning is based upon next season's anticipated network performance. The prevalence of network package buys, which tends to deliver average audience levels, supports the use of average data.

The following tabulation, chosen especially for THE BROADCASTING YEARBOOK, shows Arbitron Television's Areas of Dominant Influence (ADI) in terms of percent of the total number of U.S. TV households. Also given, in like percentage of terms, are the network audiences in each ADI market during prime time hours. It is this market audience figure, when compared to the market's share of the population, that indicate wheather the network commitment will perform above or below the national plan average in that market.

The figures are based on Arbitron Television's May 1990 Network Program Group Analysis.

Indemnification contracts (76.158)--

No licensee shall enter into any contract to indemnify a cable system for liability resulting from failure to delete programming in accordance with the provisions of this subpart unless the licensee has a reasonable basis for concluding that such program deletion is not required by this subpart.

Requirements for invocation of protection (76.159)--

For a station licensee to be eligible to invoke the provisions of this subpart, it must have a contract or other written indicia that it holds syndicated exclusivity rights for the exhibition of the program in question. Contracts entered on or after August 18, 1988, must contain the following words: "the licensee [or substitute name] shall, by the terms of this contract, be entitled to invoke the protection against duplication of programming imported under the Compulsory Copyright License, as provided in section 76.151 of the FCC Rules [or 'as provided in the FCC's syndicated exclusivity rules']." Contracts entered into prior to August 18, 1988, must contain either the foregoing language or a clear and specific reference to the licensee's authority to exercise exclusivity rights as to the specific programming against cable television broadcast signal carriage by the cable system in question upon the contingency that the government reimposed syndicated exclusivity protection. In the absence of such a specific reference in contracts entered into prior to August 18, 1988, the provisions of these rules may be invoked only if (a) the contract is amended to include the specific language referenced above or (b) a specific written acknowledgement is obtained, from the party from whom the broadcast exhibition rights were obtained that the existing contract was intended, or should now be construed by agreement of the parties, to include such rights. A general acknowledgement by a supplier of exhibition rights that specific contract language was intended to convey rights under these rules will be accepted with respect to all contracts containing that specific language. Nothing in this section shall be construed as a grant of exclusive rights to a broadcaster where such rights are not agreed to by the parties.

Substitutions (76.161)--

Whenever, pursuant to the requirements of the syndicated exclusivity rules, a community unit is required to delete a television program on a broadcast signal that is permitted to be carried under the Commission's Rules, such community unit may, consistent with these rules and the sports blackout rules at 47 CFR section 76.67, substitute a program from any other television broadcast station. Programs substituted pursuant to this section may be carried to their completion.

Effective dates (76.163)--

No cable system shall be required to delete programming pursuant to the provisions of sections 76.151-76.159 prior to January 1, 1990.

Carriage of Other Television Signals. (76.60)--

A cable system may carry the signals of any television station including low power television stations, television translator stations, foreign television stations, subscription television broadcasts, satellite distributed program services, direct broadcast satellite stations and programming from any other source. A cable system may also carry any ancillary service transmission on the vertical blanking interval or the aural baseband of any television broadcast signal including, but not limited to, multichannel television sound and teletext.

Manner of Carriage (76.62).--

Where a television broadcast signal is carried by a cable system, the signal shall be carried without material degradation and programs broadcast shall be carried in full, without deletion or alteration of any portion thereof.

Input selector switches and consumer education (76.66)--

(a) A cable system operator shall offer to supply to each new subscriber and each existing subscriber an input selector switch for each separate television receiver for which cable service is provided by the cable operator. The operator shall comply with the following in offering the switch and installing cable service:

(1) Offer to supply and install a switch for all new and existing subscribers within six months of June 10, 1987, and thereafter on an annual basis until June 10, 1992, unless the subscriber already has an input selector switching device or his/her television receiver has such a device built in;

(2) A cable operator may charge for purchase or lease of switches and associated hardware and may separately charge for installation of switches for existing subscribers. A cable operator may not charge new subscribers a separate fee for switch installation.

(i) A cable operator may offer to inspect and/or install antenna grounding systems for outdoor antennas and shall separately charge for such services.

(3) A cable system operator is not required to provide a switch to any subscriber who declines the required offer, but is not thereby relieved from making the offer to any such subscriber thereafter on an annual basis;

(4) The switch offer shall be made using text chosen by the cable operator that includes the following points:

(i) An offer to supply an input selector switch for each separate television receiver to which cable service is provided;

(ii) The switch connects both to the cable service and an antenna, and enables selection between cable service and off-the-air broadcast television signals;

(iii) If the subscriber already has switching capability, either in a separate device or as a built-in feature of his/her television receiver, an additional switch may not be needed;

(iv) If the subscriber desires switching capability, he/she may have the cable system install a switch or may obtain a switch from it with written self-installation instructions;

(v) Switching capability may be obtained from other suppliers; and,

(vi) For the subscriber's convenience, attach an offer response form to be returned to the cable system's business office.

(5) Comply with the following requirements with respect to antennas:

(i) If an antenna is present, the operator shall not recommend that the antenna be removed;

(ii) If an antenna is not present, the operator shall inform the subscriber that the switch will be operational only if it is connected to an antenna;

(iii) Where the operator installs a switch and an antenna is present, it shall connect the switch to that existing antenna.

(iv) Cable operators must provide to subscribers information on the potential for interference related to the input selector switch and the associated connections and suggest measures to take to avoid such problems. Such suggestions must include the recommendations that shielded coaxial cable be used between the receiver and the switch terminals and that at least four feet of shielded

A short course in cable, 1991

There are 10,823 operating cable systems in the U.S., serving some 28,798 communities. Another 200 franchises are approved but not built. Texas has the most systems (640) and California the most subscribers (6 million). Operating systems currently reach about 54 million subscribers, perhaps over 158 million people--58.6% of the nation's TV households. The largest (Cablevision Systems in Oyster Bay, N.Y.) has over 500,000 subscribers. Some have fewer than 100. Tele-Communications Inc. is the largest multiple system operator (MSO), with more than 10,755,000 subscribers. Industry revenues last year totaled approximately $16 billion. Most systems offer 30 or more channels. Systems constructed after March 1972 must have a minimum 20-channel capacity. The average monthly fee (basic service) is $16. Costs of laying cable range from $10,000 per mile in rural areas to $100,000 in urban areas and up to $300,000 where underground cable is required. An estimated 5,300 systems originate programing in their own studios, the average for 23 hours weekly. Equipment costs are as low as $30,000 for a small black and white operation and $200,000 for a color studio. Over 2,280 systems (21% of all systems) accept advertising on their local origination channels (excluding automated channels), with rates from $2 to $600 per 30-second spot. Most cable systems derive less than 5% of their gross revenues from advertising. Pay cable is on approximately 9,000 systems and reaches 51 million subscribers in 50 states. Most pay cable operators are reporting close to 82% penetration of their subscriber count. Home Box Office Inc. initiated the first national satellite interconnected pay network Sept. 30, 1975, using transponder time leased on the Satcom satellite. Aside from contracting for packaged pay programs, like HBO, cable operators can lease a channel to a pay program operator or secure their own programing directly from a supplier. Many systems have multiple cross-ownership ties.

Multiple Systems Operators (MSO's)

[1] C-band and Ku-band columns indicate numbers of transponders on each satellite. End-of-life estimates are based on launch date plus average 10 or 12 years.
[2] Although not of use for customers with nonsteerable antennas, Comsat developed a system to track and maintain use of birds that have used up station-keeping fuel and have gone into north-south drift.
[3] Imbalanced loading of fuel caused GStar III not to reach 125 degrees on schedule following September 1988 launch. Expending station-keeping fuel to move it there reduced bird's design life by five.
[4] FCC approved Hughes purchase of Western Union satellites in November 1988.

Radio Formats by State and Province

This special section is an expanded version of THE BROADCASTING YEARBOOK'S Radio Formats by State index, originally introduced in the 1987 edition.

This section includes the number of AM and FM stations in each state or province, with a breakdown of the number of commercial and non-commerical stations, followed by a ranked tally of formats. Appearing on this page are format totals for all U.S. stations. Totals for Canadian stations appear on F-110.

Formats defined

The YEARBOOK defines a radio format as programming over 20 hours weekly. Programming broadcast from one to 20 hours weekly is defined as special programing.

The majority of stations broadcast one specific type of format, but many stations report using two or more programing formats. Stations reporting four or more formats are listed as "Variety". The format "Other" represents stations whose formats did not fit into any of THE YEARBOOK'S 69 format classifications.

Please see the chart on page F-112 for a breakdown of radio programing by AMFM and commercialnon-commercial for the U.S. and Canada.

Radio and Television Audiences

Radio and Television were in more U.S. homes than ever as 1991 approached.

Radio. The Radio Advertising Bureau estimated that 92.8 million U.S. homes, 99%, were radio-equipped as of Jan 1, 1990.

Radio Sets. The number of working order radio sets in the U.S. totaled 541.1 million in 1990, according to estimates by the Radio Advertising Bureau. RAB estimated that 349.3 million of these were home and personal radio sets and 191.8 million were out of home receivers.

Television. A total of 93.1 million homes, or 98.2% of all U.S. homes (including Alaska and Hawaii) were TV equipped as of January 1, 1991 according to Nielsen Media Research.

Color TV. Homes equipped with color TV sets totaled 91.3 million or 98% of all TV homes, as of January 1, 1991 according to Nielsen Media Research estimates.

Viewing and Listening. The extent to which radio and television sets were used is indicated in the tables that follow. The television figures were furnished by The Nielsen Company and its Nielsen Television Index (NTI). The radio data came from RAB and other sources as noted.

*Prior to 1971, data reflects factory sales by U.S. manufacturers plus those products imported directly by distributors or dealers for resale. All import statistics are based on average value as published by the U.S. Department of Commerce, which is F.O.B. and therefore excludes U.S. import duties, freight charged from the foreign country to the U.S. and insurance.
